Chemistry 107: Developing World Thirst for Energy

Response paper: Drawing from the stories and concepts throughout China Shakes the World, show how James Kynge expects the future energy needs of China to continue growing. Include appropriate personal reactions on the topics raised in the book as you connect China’s energy needs and its “developing” nature. Your 4-5 page paper should include detailed references to the pages in the book, using the MLA or Chicago citation methods that are outlined on the college web page (http://library.lakeforest.edu/help/citation.html).

Rough drafts should be evaluated by either the Writing Center or Gil Reynders, the Peer Teacher in this course.